Hean Kheng Ong Autism & LifeWave Patches

By Patching Protocol

Patching Protocol (PP): What is your experience with LifeWave Patches and cases of autism?

Hean Kheng Ong (HKO): Well, I have been using LifeWave patches for quite a while now, this is coming to my fifth year and I would say that the experiences that I encountered are just phenomenal, I mean the people that I met up with.

Up to today I think I have patched around 4,000 people from all walks of life. There are people who come forward just to patch for general well being, for energy, for pain, but also there are areas where people suffer from all kinds of health issues and chronic diseases that we do try to help them out.

Regarding Autism, my experience goes back around three years ago when one LifeWave members was very interested in the patch and in fact, he ran a school for children with special needs.

So he started off by patching one or two of his students at the school and discovered that they were getting pretty good results from the patching procedures just by using the patch on those students.

But however, from his experience he had noticed that using the patches on children that had special needs, it also involved the student's entire family members, not just patching on the child itself. And progressively they have managed to patch all the students at the school.

So they were getting pretty good results after around three months into the patching, children started to show progress in terms of attentiveness, in terms of being focused and being much calmer, also in the area of the child having better sleep. But again, they kept emphasizing the importance of having the full cooperation of all family members, and on top of that, you will also need patience. You don't expect to get progress overnight. They did mention also that in some cases it took up to six months before a child showed real progress. But of course as they proceeded along, the child showed very good progress.

Well coming to my personal experience, I have been involved also with children with special needs in my church group and there was one particular boy, a 16-years-old who had Down syndrome as well as he is autistic, and the first time when I met this boy I found that he was unmanageable, I would say.

In the class he would just do what he wished to do – stood up, walk around, couldn't focus at all, just wandered around as and when he wishes and no matter how you try to bring attention to the class he just could not and he almost could not speak at all too. So I took an interest in this boy and I spoke to the mother and I explained to the mother about LifeWave Patches and what my past experiences with the school had been and the mother agreed to allow me to patch her son.

So I used Aeon, Glutathione, Carnosine and Energy patches on specific acupoints at the back of the body along the GV line (Governing Vessel) and the Bladder points, and it was amazing because within the first week itself the feedback that I've received from the mother was that his son is so much calmer. He doesn't show tantrums and he is even more attentive now, he is more focused and he could now take instructions and perform duties which previously he just could not make a sense on how to do it. That's my experience.

PP: Besides him, is there any other case?

HKO: Well there are two more cases which I am involved with personally and well, the feedback that I also received from their parents is that the child is doing well. 'Doing well' here means that they don't have their mood swings as before and the parents are glad because the house is more peaceful now, like I said, the most significant progress that we can see is the child being more focused, calm, attentive and also most autistic children, the feedback I received is they don't sleep too well because they are quite hyperactive. But this time around they've found that these two children were having a better sleep.

Overall the parents are just being glad that they see a change in their children.

PP: That is actually a very important point that you are making Mr. Ong what parents could expect from this exercise. Could you elaborate a little bit more what is in your mind or what is in your experience, what parents could expect, so just to make it very clear for parents?

HKO: I believe that what the patches have helped in this area is that it brings more happiness, joy and peace with the family. We don't make any medical claims in here. We don't come out and say that we could cure or heal a person of autism, no way, but you can see in the eyes and facial features of the parents when they come to see me that they are just being so glad that there's a total change of progression in their child, whereas all the years the household had been living in stress and tension.

PP: Just getting to the end, because we believe most areas have been covered. We have published a protocol which is available for everybody in the world and basically we just want to confirm if that is the protocol you've used for the cases described earlier.

HKO: Yes, that's the protocol that I have used throughout and I find that in itself is sufficient to see progress in a child.

PP: If anyone would like to let's say add in the future or work on any other points, what would you recommend for people to go progressively?

HKO: I think they should continue to use that protocol, like I say, at least for half-a-year or six months and thereafter just probably would use it for maintenance, but we have to be very disciplined and committed, at least for the first six months, that's what I recommend.

I think patience is a virtue here. You will see progress if you have patience.

PP: Thank you very much Mr. Ong for this interesting interview.

HKO: Thank you!
